Testimonial from a Primary School Principal

“Our school has greatly valued the specialised behaviour support provided by Naomi and Karen this year. We have a highly complex profile of pupils in our autism class, and the guidance, expertise and practical strategies offered have been extremely beneficial to both staff and pupils. Staff engaged very positively with the support provided and found the input to be professional, insightful and highly practical. Naomi and Karen also worked directly with parents, offering support, guidance and reassurance, which further strengthened the home-school approach for our pupils. The impact of this work has been evident in pupil outcomes, responses and overall engagement. We are very grateful for the support and expertise shared with our school community”.

Principals often ask:

- “We have a student who refuses to enter the classroom – can you help?” Yes. When we have found the factors affecting the behaviour for a student, proactive person-centered supports will be developed collaboratively.
- “Our SNAs need more confidence managing behaviour – do you provide training?” Yes. We deliver hands-on, classroom-based modelling and short targeted training. We also have a specific SNA behaviour support training.
- “Can you help us reduce crisis behaviour?” Yes. We build proactive plans, environmental supports, and safe response strategies which align with the school’s own safety intervention training.
- “We need consistency across staff – can you support that?” Absolutely. We create simple, shared systems that everyone can follow.
- “Some of our students have input from the NCSE & the CDNT, would your behaviour support input align with them?” Absolutely. A key feature of our work is the coordination of a collaborative all-stakeholder approach. Our approach aligns with Relate, and the Wellbeing Policy and Framework for Practice.
- “Do you write behaviour support plans?” Yes. Clear, practical Behaviour Support plans developed collaboratively and tailored to each student and classroom.
